Don't Deceive the Public

The number of Virginia coupon maturing annually is well known. The sminations of those coupons are vail themselves of coupons in paying their taxes is also well known. The public has official information on the subject. The Second Auditor has under his own proper name and official designation stated through the Dispatch that if all the tax-payers in the State desired to use coupons only 49,387 out of more than 340,000 could do so, even if each tax-payer used only one coupon. This fact proves conclusively that the bondholder reckons without his bost when he assumes that self-interest is on his side. Self-interest, on the contrary, is on the same side as patriotism. The 300,000 voters who cannot by any possibility pay their taxes in coupons are not going to stand idle and see their richer neighbors pay their taxes with coupons bought for 50 per cent. of their face value whilst those poorer ones have to pay their taxes dollar for dollar in gold, silver, or greenbacks. We have before us evidence that the bondholders and their agents and abettors recognize the fact upon which we have been commenting as one that must weaken their cause with the peo-"them" refers to nowhere appears in the circular.) and to have any further contention with the Richmond Dispatch, but were not above making the following misleading statement. They

"The coupons are in denominations of $1.50, $3, $7.50, $15, and $30, so that small indeed must be the tax-bill which cannot be promptly settled by tendering coupons of some of these de-

It is true that there mature annually 23,695 of $30 coupons amounting to $710,850; but there are very few taxpayers indeed whose tax-bills are large enough to enable them to use these large coupons, there being only 9,695 persons in Varginia whose tax-bills exceed $25 each. We have heretofore worked out this matter in detail, and do not deem it necessary to repeat the figures. The official figures given above are sufficient to satisfy every man who will study out their real significance that very few indeed of the people of Virginia are interested in bolstering up the cause of the holders of Virginia

Again we ask our Baltimore brokerfriends to let their patrons and commercial correspondents see the official facts hereinbefore repeated.

The Baltimore Herald says:

"The Blair educational bill seems to be doomed, but why it should be al-lowed to perish ingloriously at the fag end of a session instead of being systically and impartially disc in such a manner as to place the true objections on record does not appear.' And again :

It is not impossible, however, that the people may conclude that such men have been trusted once too often.

but how about the soldiers' orphans in Pennsylvania? The Boston Herald says "The carpet-baggers, though a bad lot in general, did not monopolize the rascality of the reconstruction era." The Herald displays its usual fairness. Give the scalawags a chance to be kicked.

'A Layman's" Notions of Government and Morals.
To the Editor of the Dispatch :

Shall we have no end to the crude and unsound reasons given for opposition to the no-liquor-license law on which we are to vote on the 26th instant? "A Layman" actually ven-tures (in your issue of the 16th) to stand father to the following abortions: "Government must not invade the do-main of Christianity and morals. It well known. The highest number of knows neither; it must have nothing persons who can by any possibility to do with either. The law looks at the acts of a man only; it makes no inquiry into his soul. It doesn't know that he has a soul." I do not hesitate to say that it would have been difficult to embrace in so few sentences so many false, injurious. radically vicious, and unhealthy principles as are involved in the above; that "Layman" ought to have studied and reflected a little more on the nature of human government and human law before he wrote those most unfortunate sentences. All human government and human aw are founded on the eternal and unchangeable moral law of God. Every human law against crime looks beyond the outward act of the man accused. It looks at his motive—in other words, at the state of his soul—of his spiritual nature at the time he performed the outward act. In the high and grave crime of murder the exact question which the jury, under the direction of the judge, are to decide is what was the intent of the soul of the accused at the time when he did the act. Was his soul harboring a malicious intent or was it That is the question, and the life of the criminal depends upon it. And so it is with the whole body of Gentlemen, will you consider it? human law. It always looks at the soul of the man. It is always addressed to his spiritual nature. It invariably treats man as a composite being of soul ple of Virginia if not with the outside and body, and therefore human law world. In their circular of last Satur- always deals with the soul. Human day, Messrs. John A. Hameleton & government always deals with moral day, Messrs. John A. Hambleton & questions and relations. The assertion of "A Layman" that government knows neither morals nor Christianity is one of the most radically-pernicious dicta ever uttered. Nothing uttered by the Encyclopædists and Atheists of France dared to go as far as that. Human government always of Christianity—inseparable from it.

I suppose "A Layman," like many others, has been led astray by a false notion of the fundamental principles of the United States Government. God There mature annually only 1,340 of forbid that those principles should ever that I am not a drinker of ardent spirits, be overthrown! No power exists any-pons; and only 2,664 of $1.50 coupons.

The sum total of taxes, therefore, that where in our country "to make any the practice of my life; nor will any man of my acquaintance need my affiligion or prohibiting the free exercise davit to assure him I write the naked can be paid in coupons under $15 is thereof." But how does this funda-$26,610! And if each tax-payer using | mental principle in any way operate to them paid in but one coupon, 8,192 forbid a Government to make a law forbidding the indiscriminate sale of an article which has been proved, by the experience of hundreds of years, to tend directly and efficiently to ruin health, dethrone reason, provoke debauchery, engender insanity, and produce crime of every kind? And how does this principle operate to forbid ministers of Christ, as well as other Christian people, from actively urging the passage of such a law? uppose in our State there was no law against murder, and suppose the Legis-lature had provided that the voters should vote whether there should or should not be such a law-would ministers of the blessed religion of Christ be stepping out of their proper place if they actively exerted themselves to induce the people to vote for such a law? On this subject the obections made to voting for the noiquor I cense are as unfounded in sound morals, in sober truth, and in philo-A PRESBYTERIAN PASTOR.

High License. To the Editor of the Dispatch :

I wonder if the prohibition extremists will continue to claim that people can MOTHERS be kept from drinking after knowing as they do now that in Vermont and Maine, prohibition States of over thirty years standing, that the United States ssues in them 1,594 licenses to liquordealers-a fact that they have not proved to be untrue. I am opposed to drinking (to the excess it is carried) even beer. I believe the following will do more to stop drinking to excess, and of course drunkenness: Require $1,000 to be paid for a license; $1,000 fine for selling to a minor, one half to be given "But the efforts of the members to reintroduce the question in various forms and under various guises have been so systematically burked that nothing better can be hoped for than the gradual awakening of Congress to a sense of the social and economical importance of the measure."

I believe the following will do more to stop drinking to excess, and of course drunkenness: Require $1,000 fine for selling to a minor, one half to be given to the informer. If husband or wife are habitual drinkers to excess that a maximum notice be served on any one or all and are the following will do some the served on the proved."

AYE shall pay $3,000, $2,500 to go to the family and $500 to the informer; $5,000 security shall be required from each one getting out a license to sell liquors, &c. Any one selling without a license shall pay $1,000 fine or go to jail for one year. If he cannot pay the fine he goes to jail—$250 to be paid the informer. If any one knows of a betdrinking and the shutting up of three cent bar-rooms, I will be one of the first to adopt his plan. Free prohibition bar-rooms won't do it.

BRIEF COMMENT.

Would not the Philadelphia Press believing and the product the Philadelphia Press that the agitation of the agitation of the agitation of the capital city; that the orders of country dealers have fallen off; that the product the public press that the agitation of this question has injured the whiskey trade of the capital city; that the orders of country dealers have fallen off; that the product the public press that the agitation of this question has injured the whiskey trade of the capital city; that the orders of country dealers have fallen off; that the product the public press that the agitation of this question has injured the whiskey trade of the capital city; that the orders of country dealers have fallen off;

country towns. It is pretty generally conceded that outside of the larger cities "no license" will prevail, and such being the case, where is the custom of wholesale dealers to come from? Will "no-license" laws in rural districts not have the effect of closing up these establishments? That much will certainly be gained. Therefore, if Richmond should yote "for license," (which we very much doubt,) it will not have a depressing effect upon the temperance-men in ing effect upon the temperance-men in other sections, as two years will soon roll around, and having carried local option in a large number of the rural istricts and towns, a concentrated effort will be made upon the cities, with renewed exertion.

Anti-local-optionists proclaim that "no-license" laws will bring with them an increase of taxes ; depression of busi ness; that drunkenness will not be de-creased, and that prohibition does not prohibit. The temperance element pro-duce facts and figures to show that where local-option laws prevail the contrary is true. Now, how are these conflicting statements to be reconciled? Simply by a fair and impartial trial. We know whiskey has been tried for very many years, and why should in-telligent people object to trying local option for two years? If it proves a failure, a vote can again be taken in two years; if it proves a success, there will be no occasion to vote again. Let us give it a fair trial and settle the matter.

For Your Consideration, Gentlemen To the Editor of the Dispatch :

A number of merchants of Richm have called a meeting for Tuesday night to take action to defeat, if they can, the prohibition movement in our city. Two reasons assigned are that a prohibitory law would not prevent the use of intoxicating liquors (no one has ever claimed that it would; but only that such a law will greatly lessen drunkenness and all the evils connected therewith), and will work great injury to the business interests and prosperity of the city. There is one fact that it is hoped these gentlemen will give due considera tion to when they come together. It is this: That on the 7th day of the present month Providence, R. I., a city of more than 100,000 souls, the second argest city in New England, a city largely engaged in manufacture and commerce, adopted prohibition by a majority of 1,237 votes, while in the whole State it was carried by the required three-fifths majority, with 400 votes to spare. Now, the question arises, Would the people of Providence, living within a few hours of Portland Me., and enjoying the best oppor-tunity of learning how prohibition affects business, have voted as they did, if the only effect to increase drinking and to injure business, especially as they belong to a race which is generally regarded as being very quick to see and very quick to consult their pecuniary interests? Here is a question proposed for the Mozart meeting on Tnesday evening.

JOHN POLLARD. Richmond, April 19.

The Answer.

RICHMOND, VA., April 19, 1886. To the Editor of the Dispatch :

In answer to "Practical Test," signed by A. R. Cocke, of Waynesboro', in last Sunday's Dispatch, allow me to make a plain statement. Last July stopped a day at Waynesboro', and being both fatigued and sick from travel, inquired where I could get some good whiskey to drink. I was told that local option was the law of the town, deals with questions of crime as ques- but a fellow-traveller who knew the ropes took me in tow, and together we found conveniently four bars. The whiskey I drank in that prohibition town was the meanest poison I ever put to my lips.

A Negro Entices a White Man from His Home, Robs Him, and is Hanged from a Tree. [Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

DANVILLE, VA., April 19.—A special to the Register says: Sunday morning near Axton, on the Danville and New-River railroad, Kellis Moorman, a negro, went to the house of Mr. Nick Mahone and told him that Worth Davis wanted to see him (Mahone) to have a little game, but Mahone would not follow him. The negro then disap-peared, and in a short time returned with a note signed by Davis, which note the negro wrote, telling Mahone to come on and bring fifty or sixty dollars, that he could make a pile. Mahone then went with the negro, who dropped behind, and, stealthily advancing on Mahone, struck him three blows on the head with a club. Mahone fell as if dead. The negro then robbed the fallen man of what money he had—some twenty-odd dollars—and filed. Mahone recovered sufficiently to reach a far ner's house near by, and made known his assailant. A party of men soon started in pursuit of Moorman, whom they captured in a few hours' and hung to a tree about 12 o'clock Sunday night. It is understood that the negro confessed the crime. Mahone's injuries are supposed to be fatal. The house of Mrs. R. W. Lyles, near North Danville, was burned Sanday. Loss $1,800; insurance $600. The family lost all their furniture. ANOTHER ACCOUNT-PUBLIC SEN-
